7. Narrative Description

This is a one story brick gas station with two garage bays on the left and the office on the right. The primary facade faces W. Washington to the south, though it has an Avenue B address to the east. The main color of the brick is tan, with red brick edging on the garages doors and a soldier course at lintel height on both facades. The garage bays have metal folding doors with two oval lights at eye level, and the left garage opening is taller than the right one. There is a wood and glass entry door with a transom above it located between the garages and the office windows at the southeast corner of the building. These office windows jog forward slightly and continued around the corner to the east side. There is plastic red brick siding on the bulkhead, and a shed-roof wood awning is located above the windows. The office windows, plastic brick bulkhead, and awning continue around the southeast corner of the building to the east facade, where there are three additional large windows for the office. The remainder of the east facade has a pair of four-light rectangular windows, composed of an upper and lower small, hopper style light with a large fixed light between them. On the right side of the east facade, there is a metal secondary entry door. The concrete block rear addition has another metal secondary door.

8. Narrative Statement of Significance

The Gilmere Shell Service Station appears to contribute historically and architecturally to the Downtown Washington Historic District. The original form and design of the gas station is intact, as well as the late 1940s modifications to enlarge the station.

A small gas station first appears here on the 1931 Sanborn map using the address 302 W. Washington Street. This gas station is replaced by a much larger station by the 1943 Sanborn map. The 1932 telephone directory, however, lists Shell Petroleum Corp. at 119 S. Avenue B. In 1935, the city directory lists Knauss Service Station at 300 W. Washington St. Per the July 1936 centennial newspaper, Guy Knauss has operated the Knauss Shell Station at the corner of W. Washington and S. Ave B for two years (Evening Journal – Washington County Centennial Celebration – July 1936 - page 29). The Golden Shell Fuel Station / Knauss Shell Service is located at the corner of W. Washington and B Avenue in ads in the Washington Journal (1937). The larger gas station may have been built by Knauss or subsequently Garrett, completed by the 1943 Sanborn map.

By August 1939, Cloyd Garrett operated Garrett’s Shell Station at West Washington and South Avenue B (Evening Journal – Centennial Celebration – August 1939 page 31). The 1941 telephone directory lists Garrett Shell Service at 302 W. Washington. In May 1943, the Shell Station had a new owner, Phil Long (Washington Journal), who hired Les Gilmere as manager. Les Gilmere took over management in early 1943, and the station grew from one bay and three pumps to two bays and four pumps. He enlarged the drive in 1950 for better gas pump island (Washington Evening Journal, 60th Anniversary Edition, February 27, 1953, 96). In 1946, it is Gilmere Shell (Washington Journal), and in 1956, the telephone directory lists Gilmere Shell Station, as does the 1964 city directory.

It is currently Glen’s Auto Repair, selling tires, batteries, fluids and oil changes.
